FRENCH FIRE ON GERMANS; STRIKE SPREADING

GREAT BRITAIN MAY BE FORCED INTO RUHR DECISION

Situation May Develop So That Final Action May Prove Necessary

By DAVID M. CHURCH
For International News Service

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Great Britain stands today between two storms that will require cautious piloting to prevent serious international complications, it was admitted by government officials. The trouble threatens to come from the Ruhr and the Near East.

France's threat of a separate treaty with Turkey is causing considerable worry in British official circles. Some quarters are disposed to regard the threat as an effort to gain British co-operation in Central Europe in return for French assistance for Great Britain in the Near East.

The next move in the Near East situation is up to the Turks. They have until Sunday night to accept or reject the allied peace terms.

A Central News despatch from Lausanne said it was authoritatively reported that Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, had received authorization from Angora to accept the terms.

May Force Decision

Private advices from Cologne indicate that a situation is likely to arise in the Ruhr next week which will make it necessary for the British to decide definitely and at once whether they will give the French any assistance in getting coal out of the German mines and into France.

In the event the Lausanne conference collapses, it is probable that Great Britain will send a strong note to France asking her to consider withdrawal from the Ruhr.

British officials give slight credence to reports that Chancellor Cuno of Germany will shortly make a proposal to France for settlement of the Ruhr problem.

Gompers Says U. S. Should Offer to Mediate in Europe

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The United States government should tender its services as mediator between France and Germany in the reparations dispute, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared today.

"The offer to act as mediator should be made in good faith," Gompers said, "and offered without regard to whether either or both nations will be pleased or displeased."

LONDON, Feb. 2.—A report was current on the stock exchange this afternoon that the Turks have signed the allied peace terms at Lausanne, but the foreign office had no official confirmation.

Free Speech Squabble Breaks Out in Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — An uproar such as is rarely seen broke out in the senate this afternoon over senatorial rights to "free speech."

More than a score of senators engaged in a hammer and tongs verbal battle in which the usual senatorial courtesy was thrown to the winds and physical clashes at times appeared imminent.

Before the storm subsided, the senate voted a rebuke to Senator Tom Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, 40 to 28, and later voted unanimously to expunge from the record the remarks of both Heflin and Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan.

Assembly Votes Probe Of Campaign Expenses

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—By a vote of 49 to 31 the assembly today adopted Assemblyman Crittenden's resolution calling for a full investigation of the campaign expenses of all candidates for state officers during the last primary and election campaigns.

GLENDALE GROWTH IS INDICATED BY INSTALLATIONS

Increase in Electric Light And Water Meters; Good Start in Building

THE growth of Glendale continues with the same regularity, according to James F. McIntyre, commercial agent for the public service department. He reports the installation of 139 water meters and 184 electric light meters during the month of January. This was thirty-one more water meters and eight more electric light meters than were installed during the same month a year ago. There are now 7462 water meters and 9296 electric light meters in service.

Indications are that February will be another record breaking month, according to H. C. Vandewater, superintendent of the building department at the city hall. He called attention to the fact that over $25,000 worth of permits were issued yesterday bringing the total for the year so far to $1,050,186.

Permits issued yesterday included the following:

W. L. Twining, 5 rooms and garage, 1734 Hillside drive	$ 7,000

BUSINESS WOMEN PLAN TO SECURE HOME OF OWN

Details Will Be Taken Up At Meeting of Council In Coming Week

Glendale's Professional and Business Women's club is to have its own club home if the plans presented at the club council meeting last night by Dr. Jessie A. Russell is voted on favorably at the next council meeting next week and is then unanimously supported by the club members.

This is the plan submitted by Dr. Russell: That the club get some Glendalian, who owns a near downtown lot, to build a club house, on which the club will take a long time lease. A lot of perhaps 50x145 feet will be most desirable for the club house, which would be a two-story, modern structure, with all the latest club home accommodations.

Plans Outlined

The lower floor of the building would include rest rooms, matron's rooms and office, dining room, kitchen, recreation rooms, baths and individual rooms for women. On the second floor would be additional baths and living rooms.

It is estimated that the rent from the living rooms would more than cover the yearly rent and that the surplus would meet the expense of gas, light and heat.

A committee to investigate the matter more thoroughly and report at the council meeting next Tuesday night is to be appointed today.

Plans were discussed at the meeting last night for the Colonial party the club is to have February 20.

SURPRISE PROGRAM IS PRESENTED AT EXCHANGE CLUB

Dinner and Social Time Is Enjoyed Last Night; May Erect Home

The Exchange "family" ate dinner last night in the dining room of the Citizens' Building and enjoyed a "surprise" program.

The Glendale Exchange Club has an opportunity to rent the assembly room in the Citizens' Building and use it as its permanent headquarters, according to an announcement made by Ex-President W. B. Kelly of 108 West Colorado street, who now has charge of this building. He suggested that this proposition should be taken under advisement.

The subject of the club securing a permanent home was brought up by Presdent D. R. Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard who intimated that certain plans were on foot which might make this possible.

Want Own Home

"It is my hope that before I surrender the gavel this year that we will have a roof over our heads which we can call our own," he remarked. It can be done if we all put our shoulders to the wheel."

"Exie," the Exchange Club mascot, was right on the job and when Capt. Kelly mentioned the fact that he had recently turned the Citizens' Building deal involving $90,000, cat calls were heard all around the table and he was obliged to make a contribution to the kitty before he was permitted to continue his speech.

An honorary membership in the club was extended to Mike Kaufman of Hollywood, member of the local postoffice force, who furnished a piano number on the program and later played for the dancing.

Provides Surprise

As a complete surprise to all members of the club, Attorney W.

Cars Are Damaged in Collision on Arden

A collision occured yesterday afternoon on Arden avenue between automobiles driven by O. F. Lund of 413 Arden avenue and G. L. Murdock of LaCrescenta.

"I was driving east on Arden avenue and when in the middle of the block I saw a machine coming from the opposite direction," stated Mr. Lund. "I was about in the middle of the street. I directed my car to the right of the road. The other driver directed his car to the same side of street."

"I was driving west on the right hand side of street," asserted Mr. Murdoc. "The other machine was driving east on the same side of the street. To avoid colliding with him I made a short turn to the left. The other driver did the same."

Both cars were damaged by the impact.

Vaccination Ordinance Fails to Pass Council

The proposed dog and cat ordinance, which provides for the vaccination and licensing of all dogs and cats, was discussed and cussed last night by the City Council.

No action was taken and it seemed to be the opinion of all of the members of the council who took part in the discussion that the provisions of the ordinance are too drastic. None of them spoke in favor of it.

Councilman Sam A. Davis spoke with some vigor upon the subject and inquired how it could be definitely known that serum would prevent rabies.

DEBT COMMISSION MAKES READY TO OFFER REPORT

President Harding to Send It to Congress With Special Message

By H. K. REYNOLDS
For International News Service

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—While members of the "veterans' bloc" in congress were rallying their forces for the fight they intend to make to finance a soldier bonus with British debt payments, the American debt funding commission met at the treasury department today to put the finishing touches on its report of the agreement reached for the liquidation of Great Britain's $5,000,000,000 debt.

The commission hopes to have this report in President Harding's hands by tomorrow so that he may transmit it to congress early next week with a specal message requesting ratification.

In order that congress may be informed of all important phases of the entire funding scheme, the commission will present a comprehensive outline of negotiations recently completed here with Chancellor Baldwin of the British exchequer.

Some Doubt Remains

This much has already been decided, but there remained some doubt today whether congress would be asked to specifically amend the debt funding act or whether President Harding would simply ask the approval of the agreement adopted here and approved by the British cabinet.

Some members of the commission still believe that the funding act should be modified now so that there will be no further difficulties in the forthcoming negotiations with other European debtors, but President Harding and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon contend that the best procedure at the present time would be for congress to approve the British funding plan by resolution.

Soldier Bonus Rider

According to plans completed today by leaders of the "veterans' block," the soldier bonus rider will be introduced in the house by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., Republican, of New York.

The object of Fish's proposal will be to have the British payments, averaging $175,000,000 annually, pledged to the payment of "adjusted compensation" on the plan already approved by congress in the bonus bill passed last session and vetoed by President Harding.

ART ASSOCIATION TO HOLD MEETING

First Public Gathering to Take Place on Next Sunday Afternoon

The first informal, public meeting of the newly organized Casa Verdugo Park and Art Association will be held this Sunday afternoon, from 3 until 5 o'clock, at La Ramada, on North Brand boulevard, between Stocker and Randolph streets.

H. C. Swartz, the sculptor, will deliver a talk on "Art and Its Influence on the Community."

A group of Peter Krasnow's impressionistic paintings will be on exhibit.

Public Invited

The public is extended a special invitation to be present, as one of the purposes of the association is to bring the artist and the average citizen into closer contact, showing the latter that the former is not some rare, visionary creature living way off in the clouds, but an earnest, striving flesh-and-blood individual.

"If we are different," said Mr. Swartz, "it is only that we have learned how to interpret the beautiful things of life that every one lives and feels. Art isn't mysterious. After all, it is only an effort to interpret life. When it succeeds, so that the average citizen feels he knows life a little better and loves it a little more, the artist has accomplished his mission."

France Gets But Small Amount of Coal, Is Claimed

LONDON, Feb. 2.—France is getting practically no coal at all from the German coal fields in the Ruhr, it was indicated by Cologne dispatches to the foreign office this afternoon.

Train service and manufacturing operations are limited by lack of fuel and labor troubles.

DUSSELDORF, Feb. 2.—German coal consigned to Holland, Italy and Switzerland was held up here today by the French military authorities.

Long lines of motor trucks and automobiles are being utilized to carry food into the Ruhr. The rail strike has brought about a shortage of provisions.

All Danger by Frost Is Past, Say Growers

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—With temperature ranging much higher over the entire southland and the sun shining brightly for the first time in several days, Southern California's citrus growers felt today that the orange and lemon crops have escaped serious damage as a result of the cold spell.

Cloudy skies and light winds and occasional showers are said to have prevented frost last night and a check today showed it much warmer than yesterday.

Grant P. E. Permission To Replace Pavement

A desire to obstruct traffic on East Broadway as short a time as possible was expressed by the Pacific Electric Railway company in a communication which was received last night by the City Council. E. C. Johnson, its chief engineer, requested permission to replace the paving which is being removed with the spur track, with asphaltic concrete instead of hydraulic concrete with an asphalt wearing surface. The request was granted.

COAL EMBARGO IS DECLARED TO BE COMPLETE NOW

Not One Ton of Fuel Is Being Moved From Ruhr for German Use

BULLETIN

ESSEN, Germany, Feb. 2.—A German coal operater was shot by a French soldier near Brechten this afternoon.

German officials refused to sign a pledge presented by the French binding them to help the French work the German mines and get the coal out of the Ruhr.

BULLETIN

LONDON, Feb. 2.—French soldiers today fired upon trains which failed to stop at Essen, said a Central News dispatch from Berlin.

The dispatch stated that the German minister of communications commanded the Ruhr railway directors and workers not to obey French orders that train service to and from the occupied areas must be maintained.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—German coal miners in the Saar basin have voted for a general strike beginning Monday, said a dispatch from Saarbruecken today.

Under article 45 of the Versailles treaty, France obtained the exclusive right to work the mines in the Saar basin as compensation for destruction of French coal mines by the German army. At the end of twenty years there will be a plebiscite in the Saar to determine if the coal fields shall be retained by Germany or united with France.

The embargo placed upon the Ruhr coal fields by the French is now complete. The French claim that not a ton of coal is being moved from the Ruhr mines into the unoccupied portions of Germany. It is understood that the Saar miners strike vote was a

REAL ESTATE BOARD DISCUSSES SUGGESTION FOR CIVIC CENTER

City Council Willing to Submit Question to Bond Election, It Is Announced

DISCUSSION of the plan for the erection of a civic center on East Broadway, on the present site of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, occupied a good part of the time at the weekly meeting of the Glendale Realty Board, held at the C-S Cafeteria yesterday, when a letter from the Exchange Club was read in which prompt action was urged on the board.

The letter pointed out that the site could be acquired now through the issue of bonds to the amount of from $250,000 to $300,000, which would also cover the cost of the erection of the necessary buildings, including a patriotic building that would be devoted to the use of local military organizations and for the preservation of war relics.

W. H. Reeves, city manager, stated that the City Council would be willing to submit the question of a bond issue to the voters at the coming spring election, and E. P. Hayward, secretary of the board, strongly urged that the board go on record as favoring the establishment of the civic center, as proposed, and that the project be recommended to other organizations in town.

A committee consisting of Peter Hansen, C. B. Guthrie and L. W. Babcock was appointed by President C. D. Thom to meet with the civics committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce on Monday night, at the same time as other committees would be in conference on the matter, and to urge the support of a bond issue to secure the site in question for a civic center.

Site for City Hall

It was suggested that the present buildings of the Glendale Union High school be secured as a municipal center, where all of the city's offices could be housed and where a civic center could be erected, and that another site be secured for the school, which would permit its being moved away from the business center of town, as has been urged by many educators.

Dr. Jessie Russell, however, pointed out that this would be impossible for at least five years, as the city of Glendale does not own the ground on which the school stands and would not be able to secure ownership of the ground for the time specified.

An inquiry directed to the

MOUNT LASSEN IS AGAIN ON DUTY

State's Only 'Live' Volcano In Eruption; Big Cloud Of Smoke Comes

REDDING, Cal., Feb. 2.—Mount Lassen, California's only "live" volcano, came back on the firing line today when a pronounced eruption occurred.

Black smoke and steam spouted in considerable volume from the crater and dense smoke rolled down the mountain on the north side, depositing volcano ash as far away as Viola.

The eruption lasted an hour or more. Snow blowing from the peak gave the impression that the eruption was continuing this afternoon, but observers said the white mist was not smoke but fine snow.

GIVES GRADUATES FAREWELL SESSION

Colorado P.-T. A. in Charge Of Program in Honor of Sixth Grade Pupils

The Colorado Street Parent-Teacher Association members were hostesses yesterday afternoon at the school house, from 3 until 5 o'clock, to the graduating sixth grade pupils, who go into the Intermediate schools next week to take up the next step of their education.

Mrs. E. S. McKee, president of the association, presented a fine program, patriotic in character.

The first number was a recitation entitled "Salute to the Flag," by little Eugene Cox, a kindergarten pupil. Following this, Miss Martelle McKee, a first grade pupil, daughter of the president, recited "The American Creed.'

Miss Helen Tupper, the school nurse, gave a talk on "Child Welfare." William H. Reeves, city manager, addressed the sixth grade on "Patriotism," as a representative of the American Legion.

Given Silk Flags

"America the Beautiful", was sung by the sixth grade pupils, after which Miss Ida Waite, school principal, presented Frank Arnold and Norman Girard with silk flags, in appreciation of the fact that they had faithfully cared for the school flag during the last six months.

The sixth grade were then treated to ice cream and cake, following which Miss Rebecca Grant sang "Yuccas," by Cadman, with "Scarf Dance," by Chaminade, as an encore.

The concluding number on the program was community singing of "America," after which tea and wafers were served by the hospitality committee and a social time enjoyed.

Canary Bird Causes Woman Being Jailed

DENVER, Feb. 2. — J. H. Pripp, 35, and Mrs. Lillie B. Hester, both of Seattle, Wash., were taken into custody here today by department of justice agents. Pripp is charged with violation of the Mann act.

Officials said the pair eloped from Seattle on January 2. Mrs. Hester is said to have abandoned her husband, who is a theatre musician, and a 17-year-old son. The pair were traced through a canary bird which Mrs. Hester insisted upon taking with her from Seattle.

Uncle John Says:

Mary is a mighty good woman, but she's got one fault. She can't let anything drop. When I was out of town a couple of weeks ago I spent a dollar for a hammer and she's naggin' me about it yet. She says if EVERYBODY took ALL their money out of Glendale to spend what kind of a city would we have here? There wouldn't be any money here to do anything with, there'd be no business and no improvements of any kind. Then she says if EVERYBODY in Glendale spent ALL their money here there wouldn't be no limit to what Glendale could do. She says every dollar spent here helps Glendale more than a dollar's worth for it keeps workin' all the time.

STUDENTS OF MID-YEAR CLASS GRADUATE FROM HIGH SCHOOL

Reynold E. Blight Talks on "Four Greatest Things" to Pupils at Exercises

GLENDALE UNION HIGH SCHOOL now has thirty more alumni. Commencement exercises for the mid-year last night were attended by a large number of the friends and relatives of the graduates. Diplomas were presented by Dan Campbell, who has been a member of the High School Board of Trustees for a number of terms. His daughter, Miss Kathleen Campbell, was one of the graduates.

Newton McGillis, president of the graduating class, presented the class gift—a sum of money to be spent upon a memorial in the new high school.

Reynold E. Blight of Los Angeles was the speaker of the occasion. His subject was "The Four Greatest Things in the World."

The high school orchestra played the processional and recessional for the class and the girls' glee club sang two songs. A quartet composed of Miss Gertrude Hineman, Miss Winifred Parker, Irvin Carver and Claude Whitfield took part in the program also.

The graduating class was presented by Principal George U. Moyse, who commented upon his pride in its scholastic and athletic record and the memories being left behind them at Glendale Union High school.

Four Greatest Things

The four great things in life are truth, love, beauty and character, according to Mr. Blight, who suggested that character was one of life's most valuable acquisitions.

"If you were asked the question: 'What is the greatest power in the world?' many of you would answer, 'Money,'" he asserted. "While money is a great power, it is by no means the greatest. Money takes to itself wings and flies away. Money depreciates; witness the German mark. Money can buy many things but it cannot buy the real things of life, happiness, love, spiritual consciousness.

"The greatest power the world knows is truth. It is the one reality. It is the only thing that remains the same at all times under all circumstances. Therefore connect up with truth. Let

Petitioners Would Agree to Bear All Expenses of Alterations

The ordinance will be adopted with the understanding that the petitioners desiring the change should bear all necessary expense, a motion to that effect passing without dissenting vote when the ordinance was brought up for introduction.

The city clerk of Eagle Rock has been authorized to buy 250 feet of fire hose at a cost of $1.15 per linear foot; the usual discount being allowed for cash payment, according to the contract.

The hose is being purchased from the Eureka Fire Hose company of Los Angeles and is guaranteed to withstand a pressure of 400 pounds to the square inch. It will cost $287.50.

MAKE NEW OFFER TO DONATE CITY SITE FOR PARK

Trustees Consider Proposal Of Ten Acre Tract by Los Angeles Man

O. W. Roberts of the Wesley Roberts Company of 407 Union Oil building, Los Angeles, sent in another communication to the City Trustees of Eagle Rock this week relative to the ten acre tract he purposes giving to the city, providing they do about $20,000 worth of improvements in and about the property.

The site which Mr. Roberts has offered to give the city lies on top of one of the knolls in the Sycamore tract. City Clerk Martsalf says it is 150 feet in width at its widest point. It runs north and south parallel to Glassel avenue. Mr. Roberts' communication in part was as follows:

Would Cut Price

"The deal I had on for the Sagamore Park property has fallen through and if the city still desires that ten acres for a park site, I am prepared to offer more reasonable terms and will be able to cooperate with you.

"The only thing at present I would require to have the water brought from the Sagamore reservoir on a route that would meet with the lower end of the ten acres in question, (this route was indicated by a red line drawn on the map of the Sycamore tract and submitted with the communication) and a road along the line of the proposed park site." (Indicated by dotted red lines on the map.)

Continuing, the communication stated that the city engineer had estimated it would cost $3000 to bring the water down and $1500 to build the road indicated.

This was only part of the offer, however, as Mr. Roberts said:

"I would want the water immediately and the road within six months; then the road on the other side of the proposed park and gas and electricity within a year and a half."

Demand for Light

"There would be no trouble to secure the gas and electricity," continued Mr. Roberts, "as there would be sufficient houses by that time to create a demand."

The concluding paragraph states that the property is now in his hands and he can comply with any reasonable proposition submitted by the trustees.

The question of accepting this offer of Mr. Roberts to donate a park site to the city has been before the trustees at divers times in the past. Each time the communication has been tabled, as it was at the last session.

CHINESE METHODS CAUSE PROTESTS

One Illiterate Oriental Kept No Records, But Had Quarter of Million

MANILA, Feb. 2.—That the so-called "Chinese Bookkeeping" law which compels all merchants to keep their accounts in English, Spanish, or the prevailing dialect, ought to be abolished is said to be the conclusion reached by Assistant Secretary of Commerce Huston when he visited the Philippines recently.

The law is thus designated because it affects, principally, approximately 20,000 Chinese merchants who do 85 per cent of the retail business in the islands, besides having a hand in export and the wholesale distribution trade.

In spite of this and the opposition of the Chinese, it is expected the law will remain effective. It is designed to expedite periodical governmental examination for purposes of collecting internal revenues and taxes.

Starts Fortune

Recently a Chinese multi-millionaire died here. He was absolutely illiterate, even in his own language. When he came to Manila he was a water carrier, and when he had saved up 25 pesos he borrowed 100 more and started trading. Soon he had 5000 pesos; from this foundation his fortune began. A portion of his profits was invested in downtown real estate.

Bills were paid in cash—as much as 100,000 pesos at a time. Toward the end of his career he was prevailed upon to patronize a bank. When told that the bank would not open an account for less than 25,000 pesos he smiled and called a Chinese "cargador," or porter. Into this man's two huge baskets the old chinese merchant emptied a portion of his valued treasure—bales of money of $5000 each—and merchant and porter went to the bank.

Cannot Get Away

The money poured over the counter. It totaled more than a quarter of a million gold! The banker was taken quite off his feet. The old Chinese rubbed his hands and laughed uproariously—for the Chinese have a keen sense of humor.

"Why, L——, if you cannot read and write, how is it you are able to avoid losses in your business and how do you know how you stand in your accounts?" he was asked.

His shrewd eyes sparkled as he replied, in crude Spanish:

"Well, I myself am the buyer, I myself am the seller, I myself am the cashier, I myself am the collector and I myself am the owner. How can the money get away? It cannot!"

BOARD REQUESTED TO INVESTIGATE WATER SUPPLY

Summer Needs of City Must Be Furnished, Is View Of City Board

That the Board of Trustees of Eagle Rock feel that the matter of looking into the water supply for the city may become an urgent question in the near future, is evident by the resolution introduced at the last session by Trustee Bergsvik and unanimously adopted. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the rapid growth of Eagle Rock City makes necessary the adoption of a policy of water development and usage in order that the supply shall be ample for all reasonable needs of consumers within the city of Eagle Rock during the summer months; and

"Whereas, the failure to carry the recent water bond issue, a fractional part of which was intended for immediate development purposes, makes necessary the wise use of water funds in hand in such development of additional supply as may be deemed advisable and such regulations as have been adopted in other cities to prevent needless waste; now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the board of water commissioners be and they are hereby requested to report to this Board of Trustees the present situation of the water department with particular reference to furnishing this board with the plans and policy it would recommend to accomplish the objects above indicated, namely, the furnishing of such amount of water during the summer months as will meet the reasonable needs of Eagle Rock City consumers."

FRANCISCO VILLA FOR PROHIBITION

Former Mexican Bandit Is 'Dry' Advocate; Gives Up Wild Games

MEXICO, CITY, Mexico, Feb. 2.—Francisco "Pancho" Villa, famed former Mexican outlaw, is in favor of prohibition. He is living under a dry rule. Liquor is not used on his hacienda at Canutillo.

Miss Esperanza Velasquez Bringas, Mexican girl connected with the department of education, who recently visited Villa, brings back this report from the headquarters of the former "guerilla leader." Miss Bringas says:

"The day on which we visited the blacksmith, carpenter and machine shops and all the work shops established by the ex-revolutionary leader, we passed a large enclosure that had originally been intended for the raising of fine game cocks. In the enclosure were a number of the cocks.

"'Almost every one is worth a fortune,' General Villa said. 'Now look, this used to be a weakness of mine, but I've given them away. I'm not going to do any more cock fighting. When I was young I lost and won a lot of money on gaming. Now I've decided that I'm not going to any more and I'll stick to it because I have the will to. The day I wanted to, I quit smoking and drinking. Here in Canutillo you've noticed no one drinks a drop. We're living under a dry rule.'"

Villa is active every day, Miss Bringas states. She says:

Likes Outdoors

"At five in the morning General Villa sallies forth from the hacienda for the river. Each day he runs also, daily, and owing to his indulgence in sport, has preserved his robust health and agility. In the afternoons when he has finished giving orders for the next day's work, he plays a Spanish ball game.

"On one of the excursions around his hacienda he spoke of his skill at managing an automobile. He still rides horseback and says that to preserve one's health one should take exercise and go to bed early. His hour to retire is seven in the evening.

"Before retiring, his children, Augustin, Octavio, Micaela, Juana Maria and Celia, come in to kiss his hand and bid him good night. As I observed him in the intimacy of his home with his wife and children, petting and caressing them like a model father, I asked myself 'can this possibly be the man of whom they tell such cruel tales.'

"Panchito Villa, Jr., is the last of the General's children. In fun he is called 'El Gran Capitan.' Several times I saw the General carrying him about in his arms, and I say it sincerely that I found him so kind, so affectionate, that Villa with his little boy in his arms seemed to me greater than when he was the chief of 60,000 men."

Mother and Her Two Children Found Dead

COAL EMBARGO IS DECLARED TO BE COMPLETE NOW

Not One Ton of Fuel Is Being Moved From Ruhr for German Use

double protest against both Ruhr occupation and the fuel embargo.

The embargo has intensified the resentment of German officials.

Further disorders are reported from railway yards in the Rhineland, where striking Germans have destroyed rail property to hamper French troop movements and the transportation of fuel into France and Belgium.

Try to Wreck Trains

PARIS, Feb. 2.—An increase in German attempts to wreck trains in the area occupied by French troops was reported from Mayence today.

Near Ingelheik a crowded passenger train was switched to a blind siding by striking railroaders, but the engineer was able to stop it before it was derailed.

A Mayence despatch to Petit Parisien, said that strikers removed a section of rail, causing a locomotive attached to a Coblenz passenger train to overturn. There were no casualties.

The Matin's Berlin correspondent reports that the position of Frenchmen in occupied sections of Germany is unbearable; even worse than war time in some regions.

Execute 4 Murderers In Little Rock Jail

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Feb. 2.—Four men, convicted in two murder cases, were electrocuted at the state penitentiary here this morning, setting a record for the number of electrocutions in one day in this state. No unusual incident marked the executions.

The men were Ben and Duncan Richardson, brothers, and F. G. Bullen, all of Ashley county, and Will Debord of Stone county.

Debord was convicted of killing Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Silsby near Mountain Home, Ark., with a hatchet.

The Richardson brothers and F. G. Bullen were convicted of killing a recluse named Culp.

Ground Hog's Weather Prediction Rejected

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—It was a scared and drowsy ground hog that crept sleepily out of its burrow today, scratched its back and cast a longing look at the universe in general.

The ground hog saw its shadow, whereupon it retreated hastily to its burrow and curled up for six more weeks' of sleep. That means there will be at least six more weeks of winter.

The weather bureau, however, continues with its calculations, officially announcing they do not trust the ground hog.

Large Attendance

Despite the inclemency of the weather, the attendance at the open forum of the Thursday Afternoon club at K. P. hall on Thursday afternoon was very gratifying.

In introducing the speaker, George B. Karr, Dr. Jessie A. Russell, chairman of the open forum section, expressed her regret that V. M. Hollister, president of Glendale Community service, could not be present and speak as announced, but assured the audience that Mr. Karr, chairman of the civics committee of the Chamber of Commerce, was equally at home on either subject, civics or community service.

Speaking on community service, Mr. Karr announced that the plans for the coming season included playground supervision, a community pageant and further development of the work of the community players. The success of the recent community entertainment on Christmas night was evidence of what could be accomplished.

As civics chairman, Mr. Karr expressed himself as a believer in Glendale and in Glendale's future. The need of a civic center and the advisability of securing a site before prices become prohibitive, was presented.

Comparison of land values of former years with present values and the belief in increased prices urged the committee to consider this project at once. The Glendale sanitarium grounds was one of the sites proposed.

Dr. Russell closed the program with some personal reminisences of former efforts along civic lines. Mrs. W. C. Mabry, president of the club, expressed the thanks of the club to Mr. Karr for coming to them.

Artistic Program

In addition to being a rare musical treat, the wonderfully artistic program presented last night at the home of Mrs. E. D. Cleophas at 337 North Central avenue added $110 to the funds of the Tuesday Afternoon club for furnishing the new club home. The affair was given under the auspices of the Literary Section, which pledged themselves to furnish the dishes. The new dishes are to cost $185 so that only $75 needs to be raised to complete the amount.

The program was given by Madame Teodora Wiesniewska, dramatic soprano; Miss Gertrude Cleophas, pianist; Elia Faggioli, dramatic tenor, and Phyllis Fergus, reader and pianist. Mrs. Faggioli and Madame Romanowska were the accompanists.

Mrs. J. E. Sargent, curator of the Literary Section, assisted in receiving. "We are greatly pleased over the success," said Mrs. Sargent this morning.

"Pleased not only because of the money we made, but because of the artistic program we were able to bring to our members and friends.

"As curator of the section, I want to sincerely thank the artists who presented the program gratis."

No Club Meeting

Glendale women who are members of the Tuesday Afternoon club and always keenly anticipative of the regular meeting of the club are somewhat confused with the realization that, although the club met January 23, two weeks ago this coming Tuesday, there will not be another regular club meeting until Tuesday afternoon, February 13.

This is because of the fact that the month of January was blessed with five Tuesdays and the regular meetings of the club are scheduled in the by-laws for the second and fourth Tuesdays.

At the meeting February 13 Arthur Kachel, dramatic reader, will present a sketch of "Disraeli."

The business session was called to order at 10:30 o'clock in the morning, by Vice President Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Vernon Putman.

A delicious luncheon was served at noon.

In the afternoon an entertaining program was presented. Mrs. Hayward gave three humorous readings, followed by a round table discussion, led by Mrs. H. V. Brown, on the topic, "Should a Woman in Comfortable Circumstances Enter the Business World" This topic opened up considerable discussion and brought out divergent points of view.

At the conclusion of the program a social time was enjoyed, Mrs. Hayward and Mrs. Porter offering for sale valentines for the benefit of the P. E. O. educational fund.

The following guests of the chapter were entertained: Mrs. W. Stamps, Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, Mrs. Warren Roberts, Mrs. Julian Hayward, Mrs. Florence L. Wintersgill, Mrs. Omstott, Mrs. Bocock, Mrs. Gross and Miss Herrick.

The new colonial bungalow home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bartley at 1130 North Pacific avenue was the scene yesterday afternoon at a housewarming, Mrs. Bartley entertaining a group of friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon, followed by an afternoon of five hundred games.

RIMMER'S TALKS ROUSE INTEREST

Visitors From Near-by Cities Attend Lectures Given by Y. M. C. A. Speaker

The meetings Harry Rimmer has been conducting in Glendale have been of wide interest, attracting young people from many of the neighboring cities. Last night a delegattion from Hollywood came over for the meeting and tonight a group of Pasadena Hi-Y boys will be in attendance.

"The Third Step" was the subject taken last night by Mr. Rimmer. In his usual appealing way he spoke to his audience of the value of one step or one word in the judging of character. He gave a group of interesting experiences to illustrate the points he wished to bring home to his hearers.

Pleasurable events of the meeting were the vocal solos by Miss Arnold, and violin numbers by Herbert Bruck.

Mr. Rimmer will speag tonight on "High Explosives." During this address he will give interesting experiences from his service with the coast artillery.

Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts will sing and a trio, including violin, cello and piano, from Burbank, will play.

Smith Leaves Barney To Handle New Tract

Marvin Smith and J. E. Barney have dissolved their partnership in the J. E. Barney Realty company at 131 North Brand boulevard, according to a statement made this morning by Mr. Smith.

Mr. Barney will henceforth operate his organization alone, and Mr. Smith is planning to erect immediately an office at 1200 East Colorado street, on the tract recently bought by A. G. Smith and Benjamin Sheldon.

"The reason for the change," states Mr. Smith, "is that I have accepted an offer from the purchasers of this property to handle the subdivision of it. And it is only with reluctance that I relinquish my pleasant associations with Mr. Barney."

Home Trade Drive Is Launched in Honolulu

HONOLULU, Feb. 2—Honolulu merchants regard the "foreign" mail order business of the mainland as so serious a menace to island prosperity that they have backed up their slogan of "island money island made should remain in island trade" with reasons, pictorial and otherwise, descriptive of the superiority of island goods and the advantage of home buying. These reasons are embodied in a catalogue, the first "Honolulu Merchants' Mail Order Catalogue," which in its first week of issuance was sent to 5000 residents of outlying islands. The first edition is the initial step in a campaign of "constant reminding," which will be directed particularly toward the buying public in remote sections of the island territory to educate them to buy at home instead of sending to the mainland.

CLUB'S MEMBERS RUMMAGE ATTICS

White Elephants of Glendale Homes Doomed to Mount Auction Block

White elephants that have been parked in the family store-rooms of Tuesday Afternoon club members are to be marched forth next week for the big rummage sale and auction to be held Saturday, February 10 in Jensen's Palace Grand shops under the auspices of the club ways and means committee, headed by Mrs. A. H. Montgomery.

Everything useful and yet not wanted by the present or next generation should be contributed by club members to the big benefit for the club house building and furnishing fund, is the contention of Mrs. Montgomery and her committee members.

Auction at Night

There is to be no admission charge, but Mrs. Harry Greenwalt, who will serve as doorkeeper, will present each entrant with a ticket giving a chance on a turkey or goose, to be auctioned off. Those holding tickets must be present at the auction in order to win a prize.

Mesdames E. W. W. Hayward and A. A. Barton, who served so efficiently as cashiers at the society circus, are to again be mistresses of the exchequer.

Cooked Food Sale

O NMEETING SANCHIA

"And now I hope I don't meet Sanchia. But I bet I will."

The lady who said that had been shopping with me. She had found some plants which she could have very cheaply, if she could carry them home, and had loaded her arms with them. She also had an umbrella. She did look unlike her usual trim self. But it wasn't her appearance that I laughed at.

It was her fear of meeting Sanchia.

I have the same fear.

And I'll wager you do.

Of course you don't know Sanchia. And neither, for that matter, do I, except as a friend's friend.

But I have my own Sanchia, and I'll wager you have.

Sanchia is the person we always meet at certain times.

When we carry so many bundles that we make ourselves look ridiculous.

Always When We Look Our Worst

When it's a rainy day and we wear the two year old hat that we keep for such days, and our old coat and rubbers, and carry an umbrella.

When we have been shopping all the afternoon in a Christmas crowd, and we are afraid our hat is on at a bad angle, and we know our hair is out of curl and that we are looking our most fagged and haggard.

When we happen to meet some old acquaintance who has a heart of gold and an appearance corresponding to the very basest metal—whatever that may be.

At the Bargain Counter

When we are hovering over some bargain counter in the hope of getting some cheaper stockings for Johnny as long as he will wear them out just so quickly, anyhow.

When the flivver is looking its rattliest, and we are just parking it against the contrasting grandeur of some impeccable limousine.

And then along comes Sanchia, immaculate, exquisite from smart hat to trim feet, shod in sheer silk stockings, and smart high heeled pumps. Never is there a bundle in her hand, all she ever carries is the daintiest of bags in whatever is the prevailing bag mode—satin or bead or gold.

Does she never wear rubbers or carry an umbrella? Never. Why should she, when she steps from the modern band box a chauffeured limousine.

She Is Delighted

Of course she is perfectly cordial, perfectly glad to see you no matter what you have on. But you aren't glad to see her. Not by a jugfull. As you painfully repress your desire to explain your bundle laden arms, or the unwashed flivver, or the bargain counter, you wish the earth would swallow one of you.

And now I've told you who she is. I put it to you for an honest answer. Is there or is there not a Sanchia in your crowd?

Tomorrow—The Social Climber.

PREACHER GETS PRAYER BRIDE

Third Attempt Proves Successful, He Says

Rev. and Mrs. George H. Lawson.

Here is a hand-holding study of Rev. George H. Lawson, of Orange, New Jersey, and his "prayer bride," formerly Mrs. Ella Wiever, a laundry worker, of East Orange, whom he has just married. Two previous attempts had been made by the preacher to find a "prayer bride," but one of the women chosen jilted him, and the other, he said, did not meet his ideals. Mrs. Wiever-Lawson, declares the pastor, is the real Simon-pure article and truly heaven-sent.

WELL KEPT TOE NAILS

If we treated our hands as we do our feet, we would have corns all over our fingers! And if we gave our toes half a chance, we would never have corns at all.

It's quite easy to keep the toe nails looking well and feeling well. The best time to pedicure is after a bath; but even so, if you have had trouble with callous skin, it's a good thing to soak the feet twenty minutes in a basin of warm water. And it's even better if the water is salty or if it has any of the various powders containing salts and minerals that are supposed to provide at home a bath with the virtues of those at the world-famous mineral springs and spas. Or, if you haven't anything like this, a little soda in the water, a little soap, or even witch hazel will soften the water and make it the more effective.

Dry the feet, put bits of cotton saturated with witch hazel over each corn, and clean under the nails with a nail file. Scrape off as much dead skin growing over the nails as you can. Trim each nail short and straight across with scissors, and trim each big toe nail in a V shape, with the V pointing inwards. This method corrects any tendency toward ingrowing nails because this shape draws the edges of the nail up out of the flesh.

Corns that have been soaked for some time, soften and swell. Then this dead skin can be shaved off with a sharp knife—one specially made, or a razor—if you are very very careful not to cut fingers or the living flesh near the corn, and if everything is quite clean. When shaved down, it can be touched with collodion to take out the soreness, then rubbed with oil to keep it from coming back.

A Room Maid—You can protect your hands when working by wearing canvas gloves while sweeping and dusting, and rubber ones if your hands must be in water any length of time. When you are through with your work rub the hands full of grease, you need not use expensive cold cream, for there is nothing better than plain lard. Then wash with a good mild soap and hot water and clean under and around the nails with a file. This alone might keep your hands attractive. Rubbing them with rich creamy milk at night is good. Preparations containing honey and almond are also excellent.

Tomorrow—Some Beauty Freaks.

In cooking our own favorite dishes, we housewives must not forget that the cooks of Sweden, Norway and Denmark—as well as in other parts of the globe—have their favorites which are just as delicious. Here are some good Scandinavian ones:

"Rograd:" Bring to a boil one pint, each, of water and currant juice (one tumbler of currant jelly put into a pint measure with enough boiling water to fill up the measure, may be substituted in Wintertime); when boiling, add one heaping cup of sugar and a small piece of stick cinnamon and let simmer five minutes. Then take out the cinnamon and stir in, slowly, one heaping cup of either pearl tapioca (which has been soaked overnight in water to cover) or arrowroot. Boil for 15 minutes then turn into molds to harden. Serve turned out onto plates with cream and sugar.

Scandinavian Beef: Cut cold braised or roast beef into pieces the size of a forefinger. Mince four large uncooked onions and fry these to a light brown color in butter. Add to the fried onions one tablespoon of flour, one cup of broth, and two sprigs of parsley minced. Butter a baking dish and lay the beef-fingers in it criss-cross (like an old-time cob house) and on each layer of beef put a spoonful or two of the onions and broth. Cover all with breadcrumbs, dot with butter and bake in a quick oven till brown—about 15 minutes."

"Watrouskis:" Grate a cupful of mild cheese add to it one teaspoon of butter, a pinch of mace, a saltspoon of salt and one whole egg which has been beaten with two extra egg-yolks and a teaspoon of flour. Beat this mixture till smooth. Now make small pastry cups by cutting rich, uncooked pie crust into rounds with a biscuit cutter. Lay a thick strip of extra pastry around the edge of each little pastry-disc—so as to form a small cup. Fill the hollow of each pastry cup with the cheese mixture. Bake 20 minutes in a hot oven, or till a golden brown.

Swedish Fish Soup: Skin and bone one dozen of any kind of small pan fish. Boil the heads and bones in two quarts of water with a tablespoon of salt and a handful of dried mushrooms. Egg and crumb the pieces of fish and fry these in boiling lard, then drain them on brown paper. Now pare and chop fine one large beet, two raw onions, six leeks and a parsley root; cut fine two small white cabbages and cook all these vegetables together in salted water for 30 minutes, then strain the fish broth over them. Add the fried fish-pieces and serve.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF, I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME
CHAPTER XLIII
Colic

Here we are with colic again. Some people might think I was spending altogether too much time on this painful subject. But I know the Mamas won't and I am sure the babies won't. For of all the ordinary tragedies of babyhood (and fatherhood and motherhood, I'll state) colic ranks first.

But, Mamas, I want to warn you again not to think everything we may have is colic. Sometimes we babies suffer with other things. However, if we are not cold or wet, and have no open pins trying to ingratiate their points into our tender bodies, and if we have no fever and are not fearfully famished or fearfully furious (because we have been taught that that is the way to get what we want!) and if we are gaining our four to six ounces a week—if we haven't these "ifs," then you can safely say that if we yell like a Comanche Indian and draw up our legs and our tummies are hard and distended, then we probably have colic.

Last week I gave you the chief causes of colic. If you missed my talks of last week and a week ago on colic you can have them by sending to our Doctor. (But Doctor says to remind you that you must address the envelope to yourself and stamp it, or she cannot send you the information you ask for.)

I shall repeat today what to do for the attack at the time. Then if your baby has repeated attacks, you must find out which one of the causes I gave you is responsible for it and correct that. I know you will do so for I know you will not want to be spending your nights and days with a miserable, unhappy baby.

Camomile, anise and cinnamon tea are old-fashioned remedies that Mamas used to give. They do not do any harm and sometimes seem to help. Sometimes a drink of warm water with a pinch of baking soda or a half of a soda mint tablet will bring up the gas if it is in the stomach. It acts really by combining with the hydrochloric acid of the stomach and forming more gas, but when that comes up the other tags along.

If the gas is in the lower intestine a warm enema, made with a small cup of warm water with five to ten drops of turpentine or one-half a teaspoonful of salt, will bring the gas away. But enemas are not good for babies everyday, Mamas. Some mamas and some nurses (who ought to know better) give a baby an enema nearly every time it cries. Thas is very bad.

If you will rub the abdomen gently with a circular motion, beginning on the right side low down, going up towards the stomach, then down on the left, it may help the gas to move along. Another thing you can do is to put baby on his back, bend his knees and press them gently on his abdomen several times. That opens up the lower bowel and gives the gas a chance to escape.

We must be kept warm and it is a good plan, after doing these other things, to put us on our tummies over a hot water bag with a flannel cover.

If your baby suffers much with colic, Mama, you had better see a baby specialist so he can determine the cause and then you can correct it. The fault, as I have told you, may be due to your own errors of diet or habit. One thing you must not do, Mamas, is to give babies soothing syrups and other drugs yourself. If your baby suffers so much that he needs medicine, then your Doctor will prescribe it and watch baby.

One of the causes I gave was gas germs that get in the intestines. You will have to see your baby specialist about this and have him tell you how you can change the food to make them disappear.

Now I hope we shall be through with colic for a while. Au Revoir.

Elks Urge President To Halt Dope Traffic

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Telegraphic announcement that President Harding will receive a delegation of nationally prominent Elks, who will emphasize to him the country-wide dope menace, was received here.

The meeting will take place at 10:45 a. m. today, said a message to William J. Sinek, exalted ruler of the Chicago lodge. Sinek will present to the president resolutions from 800 lodges in the several states, representing more than 500,000 Elks, asking the chief magistrate to take decisive action on the habit-forming drug problem.

REALTY MEN O. K. STANDARD FORMS

Dealers Are Enthusiastic in Approval of Various Styles Prepared

Realty dealers in upward of 200 cities of California have already tested the standard forms for authorization to sell (listing) and deposit receipt, drafted by the California Real Estate association, and in not a single case have they reported the loss of a deal or commission, according to the news department of the association.

These forms, drawn up by the standard forms committee of the association last August, are now used in more than 500 real estate offices, and, judging by all indications, they will be universally used by realtors throughout California before the end of another year. President Frazier O. Reed of the California Real Estate association is chairman of the standard forms committee. Up to date, after six months' trial only five complaints against the forms have been submitted to his committee. None of these complaints involved the loss of a single deal or worked a hardship on a broker. The complaints were mainly suggestions, none of which were found to be of a fundamental character.

New Forms Ready

According to the state association offices at Los Angeles over 100,000 of these standard forms have now been distributed throughout California, and their success is phenomenal. Sellers and buyers readily sign them.

Chairman Reed announced at the annual banquet of the Whittier district realty board on January 20 that standard forms for the exchange agreement, deed, mortgage and trust deed, would be forthcoming shortly.

It is of interest to note that the standard forms have been approved by the California state real estate department.

As Europe looks over our tourists, she doubtless thinks we have nerve to propose a tariff to keep out foreign nuts.

Deep Sea Diving Expedition Will Attempt To Recover Lost Tungsten

At the request of the Chilean government a deep-sea diving expedition has sailed from New York to attempt to recover $1,000,000 in tungsten, which was lost in a vessel sunk off Valparaiso. The expedition is headed by B. F. Leavitt, president of the Leavitt-Lusitania Salvage Corporation, who later proposes to go to the Irish coast in an effort to bring up the liner Lusitania, sunk during the war by a German submarine. Land Buyer Testifies In Govt. Fraud Trial

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—"They told me this land would grow anything but coffee and bananas, and that I could get six crops of alfalfa each year. When I finally found it, there was nothing but arid sand."

Dr. William M. Shipley of Ottoson, Iowa, thus testified as he opened the government's case against Daniel Hayes and Company, being tried in the federal court on a charge of using the mails to defraud investors out of nearly $4,000,000 in California land deals.

According to Dr. Shipley, he bought the land in 1918 for $33,800 on the strength of photographs and persuasive arguments used by John H. Rogers, vice president of the company, and Daniel Hayes himself. He and a group of investors went to California to see the land, he said, and they were shown fertile fields owned by other farmers.

Pesita was willing to agree to anything, and so it came that half an hour later Billy Byrne was leading a choice selection of some two dozen cutthroats down through the hills toward Cuivaca. While a couple of miles in the rear followed Pesita and the balance of his band.

Billy rode until the few remaining lights of Cuivaca shone but a short distance ahead and they could hear plainly the strains of a grating graphaphone from beyond the open windows of a dance hall, and the voices of the sentries as they called the hour.

"Stay here," said Billy to a sergeant at his side, "until you hear a hoot owl cry three times from the direction of the barracks and guardhouse, then charge the opposite end of the town, firing off your carbines like hell an' yellin' yer heads off. Make all the racket you can, an' keep it up 'til you get 'em comin' in your direction, see? Then turn an' drop back slowly, eggin' 'em on, but holdin' 'em to it as long as you can. Do you get me, bo?"

From the mixture of Spanish and English and Granavenooish the sergeant gleaned enough of the intent of his commander to permit him to salute and admit that he understood what was required of him.

Having given his instructions Billy Byrne rode off to the west, circled Cuivaca and close up upon the southern edge of the little village. Here he dismounted and left his horse hidden behind an outbuilding, while he crept cautiously forward to reconnoiter.

He knew that the force within the village had no reason to fear attack. Villa knew where the main bodies of his enemies lay, and that no force could approach Cuivaca without word of its coming reaching the garrison many hours in advance of the foe. That Pesita, or another of the several bandit chiefs in the neighborhood would dare descend upon a garrisoned town never for a moment entered the calculations of the rebel leader.

For these reasons Billy argued that Cuivaca would be poorly guarded. On the night he had spent there he had seen sentries before the bank, the guardhouse, and the barracks in addition to one who paced to and fro in front of the house in which the commander of the garrison maintained his headquarters. Aside from these the town was unguarded.

Nor were conditions different tonight. Billy came within a hundred yards of the guardhouse before he discovered a sentinel. The fellow lolled upon his gun in front of the building—an adobe structure in the rear the the barracks. The other three sides of the guardhouse appeared to be unwatched.

Billy threw himself upon his stomach and crawled slowly forward stopping often. The sentry seemed asleep. He did not move. Billy reached the shadow at the side of the structure and some fifty feet from the soldier without detection. Then he rose to his feet directly beneath a barred window.

Within Bridge paced back and forth the length of the little building. He could not sleep. Tomorrow he was to be shot! Bridge did not wish to die. That very morning General Villa in person had examined him. The general had been exceedingly wroth—the sting of the theft of his funds still irritated him; but he had given Bridge no inkling as to his fate. It had remained for a fellow-prisoner to do that. This man, a deserter, was to be shot, so he said, with Bridge, a fact which gave him additional twenty-four hours of life, since, he asserted, General Villa wished to be elsewhere than in Cuivaca when an American was executed. Thus he could disclaim responsibility for the act.

The general was to depart in the morning. Shortly after, Bridge and the deserter would be led out and blindfolded before a stone wall—if there was such a thing, or a brick wall or an adobe wall. It made little difference to the deserter, or to Bridge either. The wall was but a trival factor. It might go far to add romance to whomever should read of the affair later; but in so far as Bridge and the deserter were concerned it meant nothing. A billboard, thought Bridge, bearing the slogan: "Eventually! Why not now?" would have been equally as efficacious and far more appropriate.

The room in which he was confined was stuffy with the odor of accumulated filth. Two small barred windows alone gave means of ventilation. He and the deserter were the only prisoners. The latter slept as soundly as though the morrow held nothing more momentous in his destiny than any of the days that had preceded it. Bridge was moved to kick the follow into unconsciousness of his impending fate. Instead he walked to the south window to fill his lungs with the free air beyond his prison pen, and gaze sorrowfully at the star-lit sky which he should never again behold.

In a low tone Bridge crooned a snach of the poem that he and Billy liked best:

And you, my sweet Penelope, out there somewhere you wait for me,
With buds of roses in your hair and kisses on your mouth.

Bridge's mental vision was concentrated upon the veranda of a white-walled ranchhouse to the east. He shook his head angrily.

"It's just as well," he thought, "She's not for me."

Something moved upon the ground beyond the window. Bridge suddenly became intent upon the thing. He saw it rise and resolve itself into the figure of a man, and then, in a low whisper, came a familiar voice:

"There ain't no roses in my hair, but there's a barker in my shirt, an' another at me side. Here's one of 'em. They got kisses beat a city block. How's the door o' this thing fastened?" The speaker was quite close to the window now, his face but a few inches from Bridge's.

"Billy!" ejaculated the condemned man.

"Surest thing you know; but about the door?"

"Just a heavy bar on the outside," replied Bridge.

"Easy," commented Billy, relieved. "Get ready to beat it when I open the door. I got a pony south of town that'll have to carry double for a little way tonight."

"God bless you, Billy!" whispered Bridge, fervently.

"Lay low a few minutes," said Billy, and moved away toward the rear of the guardhouse.

A few minutes later there broke upon the night air the dismal hoot of an owl. At intervals of a few seconds it was repeated twice. The sentry before the guardhouse shifted his position and looked about, then he settled back, transferring his weight to the other foot, and resumed his bovine meditations.

The man at the rear of the guardhouse moved silently along the side of the structure until he stood within a few feet of the unsuspecting sentinel, hidden from him by the corner of the building. A heavy revolver dangled from his right hand. He held it loosely by the barrel and waited—

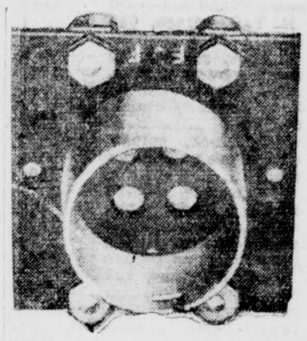
RELIABLE TUBE SOCKETS



Nothing is so exasperating as a defective tube socket. After spending great pains in assembling a receiver, to find you have been deceived in the selection of the socket is enough to make one give up radio as a hobby.

The socket illustrated is designed by radio engineers, who have had to build apparatus to be used in rough fashion and able to stand the strain of rapid manipulation. Standard tubes fit snugly into the sockets which are made of spun aluminum shells, correctly machined to the proper size. The contact springs are effectively insulated from each other in such a manner that the tube terminals do not come into contact with the socket springs until the prongs are in the correct position, whereupon they drop into position, therefore there is no danger of short-circuiting the batteries or burning out the tube.

CHANGES OF WAVE LENGTH

In many sets of apparatus it is customary to have connections arranged by which different chosen wave lengths, say 300 or 600, can be transmitted without the necessity of a readjustment of the apparatus after each change and also permits of a rapid change from one wave length to the other.

An antenna alone, without any inductance coil, has a natural wave length of its own, dependent upon its inductance and capacitance. The antenna as a rule is so designed that its natural wave length is shorter than the wave length to be used, and the wave length desired is obtained by adding inductance in series or merely by the added inductance of the secondary of the oscillation transformer.

Since it is desirable to have a convenient method of coupling the closed and open oscillating circuits, in order that the fairly critical adjustments may be made, a part of the secondary inductance may be a separate coil called the "antenna loading coil." This is connected to the secondary of the oscillation transformer in series with the antenna. For a quick change of wave lengths, the apparatus can be designed so that by means of a switch with a mechanism of levers, changes simultaneously the adjustments of all three coils. From these coils are taken taps over which three switch blades pass, adjusting all three coils of inductance to the values needed for the particular wave length desired, keeping the circuits in resonance. However, a change of coupling may be necessary for each change. This can be determined by tests and the change of coupling, if necessary, marked on the apparatus for the operator's guidance.

In the event that the natural period of the antenna is greater than the wave length it is desired to work with, an arrangement can be made as follows:

In the lead between the secondary of the oscillation transformer and the ground, a condenser should be placed in series. This must be capable of withstanding high voltages. By using a small capacitance the wave length can be reduced to approach one-half of the natural wave length of the antenna. However, the condenser must not be too small as the radiation of the set will be greatly decreased and very poor results obtained in the matter of range.

Three Found Guilty of Violating Injunction

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 2.—Sam Shockley, Robert Bogart and T. Hubbard, charged with violation of the general injunction issued during the shopmen's strike last summer, were found guilty in the federal court here and each sentenced to serve six months in the federal prison.

W. D. Adams and W. A. Morris, under similar charges, were found guilty, but sentence was withheld pending a hearing today on motion for new trials.

Daily News Letter

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad.

TODAY—Irene Corbally Kuhn, special correspondent at Honolulu, relates a unique incident in the administration of justice in the Territory of Hawaii.

TOMORROW—W. R. Douglas, of Harrisburg, gives interesting sidelights on fuel transport via the "coal fleet" method out of the Pennsylvania bituminous regions.

By IRENE CORBALLY KUHN,
For International News Service

HONOLULU, Feb. 2.—The Island of Oahu bears a two-thirds resemblance to Gaul in that it is for all practical purposes divided into two parts, the windward side and the leeward side. The former is chiefly given over to plantations and is typically tropical and forest primevally and all that sort of thing. They have judges and administration of justice there, however, although, occasionally, the inroads of the effete civilization from the leeward side, principally the city of Honolulu, interfere with the simple mechanics of that justice.

For instance, the Kamehameha highway, the principal road around the island, recently was closed at an important point for six weeks for repairs which the advanced thinkers of the Department of Public Highways ordained. Judge J. K. Paele, presiding magistrate of Kanaeohe, on the "off" side, lives at Waihole, about six miles from his court. The judge usually drives to court in an old-fashioned buggy and Dobbin, his faithful charger, makes the six miles in the dewy freshness of the morning without any trouble. Now, however, since the road has been closed at a point where no detours are possible, the judge is faced with the alternative of reaching court and getting home again by driving Dobbin 200 miles daily, around the island, or else swimming or rowing across Kaneohe Bay.

The judge came to Honolulu to consult with Mayor Wilson about the matter. The Mayor suggested swimming across the bay and volunteered the information that the judge could pack his clothes in a small bundle and fasten it to his head. A rowboat didn't appeal to the judge at all. He couldn't reconcile his idea of magisterial dignity with the spectacle of himself, shirt sleeved and perspiring, laboring over the oars.

Dobbin can swim, but the buggy is not so accomplished; neither will it float. Since there is no possibility of the board of supervisors establishing an emergency ferry service, it looks as though there is a vacation in store for the judge, while the road is closed and justice all gummed up.

Coincident with the emphatic announcement of Consul-General K. Yamasaki, of Japan, that he is unqualifiedly in favor of the acceptance by Japanese residents of the new alien langnage school regulations, came a request from Governor W. R. Farrington, of the territory, to the superintendent of public instruction that the latter formulate an appropriate programme for the inclusion of Oriental languages in the curriculum of the public schools here.

The new regulations, over which there has been heated discussion and which has so incensed the Japanese that they are threatening court action, simply call for a curtailment of the length of time Hawaiian-born American children of alien parentage shall spend in the alien language schools and provide for compulsory attendance in the American public schools before they attend the language schools.

The Japanese Consul-General is urging the Japanese people here, who are the chief protestants of the new regulations affecting children of all alien races, not to take legal action as they have threatened to do, on the ground that the new regulations are an infringement of their rights. Feeling is running very strong both in Japanese and American circles.

The Governor's request is considered by many to be in the nature of a compromise to the bitterest faction of the Japanese, as well as a definite move toward supplying in the American public schools the language need which the Japanese and other alien races insist their children must have in order that the parents who speak no English may converse with them.

Inclusion of Oriental languages in the public school curriculum will provide the children of Oriental parents with the self-same teaching for which they now attend a separate school.

At the same time it will, or should, automatically remove parental objection to regulations affecting and ultimately abolishing the alien language schools. It should also allay the fears of Americans who feel that the alien language schools in the territory are a hindrance to the teaching of Americanism and the assimilation of American-born Japanese and Chinese.

Book Reviews

There is a wealth of book pleasure in store for Glendalians who take advantage of the opportunities offered by the Glendale public library, a well-ordered institution of which the city may well be proud.

The shelves are crowded with all the wanted classical and modern masterpieces of fiction and non-fiction, and catering to the book desires of Glendalians, old and young, is the aim of the librarian, Mrs. Alma J. Danford, and her staff.

Among the nationally known writers whom Glendale has claimed as temporary residents during the past two years is Theodore Dreiser. It was during his stay in Glendale last year that he wrote and completed his latest book, "A Book About Myself" an autobiography in which Dreiser tells of his newspaper days. It is a record not only of experience, of events, of people, but a chronicle of emotional reactions to a world that was cruel and wonderful, beautiful and passionate, colorful and romantic and at once depressing and inspiring.

Other new books at the library might be listed as follows:

"Mount Everest—The Reconnaissance of 1921," an account of the first great piece of exploration since pre-war days, ranking with classic Arctic and continental achievements.

"Furniture Masterpieces of Dundan Phyfe," by Charles Over Cornelius.

"My Life and Some Letters," by Mrs. Patrick Campbell, for many years one of the most popular figures on the English stage.

"Letters of Franklin K. Lane," a textbook of Americanism, an inside story of the cabinet during the war.

"My Northern Exposure or the Kawa at the Pole," by Walter E. Traprock.

"My Years on the Stage," by John Drew, with foreword by Booth Tarkington.

"William De Morgan and His Wife," by A. M. W. Stirling, the story of an artist, potter and novelist, who made his fame as an author at the age of 67 years. Perhaps since the Brownings there has been no other instance of two people so gifted and entirely in harmony in their genius, each acting on the life work of the other.

"Senescence of The Last Half of Life," by G. Stanley Hall, author of "Adolescence" and "Morale."

For the lovers of music and musicians there is "Enrico Caruso," by Pierre V. R. Key, in collaboration with Bruno Zirato. It is the life story of the world-famed tenor, authorized and endorsed by Mrs. Caruso.

"From Printer to President," the story of Warren G. Harding, by Sherman A. Cuneo, a life-long friend and fellow editor.

"Spendthrift," a collection of sea songs by Milton Raison.

"The Bookman Anthology of Verse of 1922," arranged by John Farrar.

"An Outline of Wells," by Sidney Dark, an analysis of H. G. Wells, the author and man.

"Collecting Antiques," both for pleasure and profit, by Felix Gall.

"The Art and Business of Interior Decoration," by B. Russell Herts.

"Tramping on Life," by Harry Kemp is another new temptation among the newer books. It is an autobiographical narrative telling of his poetic tramp on freight, in and out of jail, on the high seas, in school and college.

SPORTS

The Sport Crucible

By Davis J. Walsh
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW RORK, Feb. 2.—Probably the most gullible and at the same time, the most superfluous appendage a boxer ever had is Paddy Mullins, the low-geared manager of Harry Wills. Paddy is a fine fellow, personally—even tempered, trustworthy, substantial, a source, no doubt, of constant pride to his family and altogether a bromide. He would make an excellent clergyman.

That he is not a thoroughgoing success as a prize fight manager is due to the fact that the boxing game has been, and is, a happy hunting ground for sharpshooters. Paddy is almost pathetic at this merry pastime.

No better proof of this is needed than the fact that Wills, a potential million-dollar asset as late as last summer, is now barely solvent, in a fistic sense. He has been allowed to depreciate beyond all reason just because Mullins thinks that modesty is a more seemly virtue than garrulous enterprise. He has never made a serious attempt to keep Wills' name before the public, and as a result the negro's quest of the heavyweight title is now almost a dead issue.

Imagine Jimmy Johnston or Dan Morgan in charge of Wills' affairs! They would have talked that brunette person into a match with Dempsey long since or had the public so warmed up over the matter that Jack would be discredited if he declined the issue. They know that publicity is the one and only go-getter, and they conduct themselves accordingly.

Mullins, on the contrary, is a managerial oyster. So much so, in fact, that he is the last port of call in the event that you want to know something about Wills. His inevitable reply to all questions is:

"Oi dunno," repeated with depressing monotony. One would assume from Paddy's demeanor that he is only politely interested in Wills.

His attempts to match wits with Jack Kearns and other astute members of the profession are equally unimpressive. He seems to realize that he is dealing with sharp business men, but doesn't know just what to do about it. He, therefore, does nothing.

This policy lost him a golden opportunity last spring, when Dempsey and Kearns went abroad. Mullins and Wills should have followed on the next steamer, for Europe was wild to see Dempsey in action and would have paid liberally for the privilege, particularly since there was no sentiment abroad against mixed bouts at that time.

It may be remembered that Woodman followed these tactics in the case of the fleeing Tommy Burns, finally cornered that elusive individual in far-off Sydney, and as a result Jack Johnson became champion of the world. Mullins and Wills had the same chance, but the Dempsey-Kearns troupe was back in America while they were still thinking it over.

Wills has suffered less through Mullins' miscarriage of plans than has Paddy himself. The fighter has picked up a fair enough living in the ring, but Mullins never has got back the money he sunk in attempting to put Wills over as a championship contender. In fact, it is said on good authority that Mullins would just about break even with the money he would get from a match with Dempsey.

Giant Recruit Denies Report He Is Holdout

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—According to a statement made public by James Tierney, secretary of the New York Giants, Jack Bentley has assured Giant officials that he is not a holdout, as was reported. Bentley, who was sold to New York for $65,000 by Jack Dunn, owner of the Baltimore club, is said to have declared that he is satisfied with the terms offered him but wants a part of the purchase price before signing.

It is all right for working men to belong to a union; but it is much better when the union belongs to the working men.

O'ROURKE OFFERS DEMPSEY 2 BOUTS

Wills and Beckett Picked as Champion's Opponents By N. Y. Promoter

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Tim O'Rourke, veteran boxing promoter, at a conference with Jack Kearns yesterday afternoon, made an offer for Jack Dempsey to appear in two title bouts in this state between April 15 and October 15 of this year. O'Rourke, who is said to represent the McGraw-Stoneham baseball interests, declared the contests would be staged at the Polo grounds and that the park could be so arranged to have a seating capacity of 100,000.

The proposed opponents of Dempsey, O'Rourke declared, would be Harry Wills, the negro challenger, and Joe Beckett, heavyweight champion of England. O'Rourke did not make any flat guarantee for Dempsey's services, but declared he would give him a percentage of the gate.

As an evidence of good faith, O'Rourke declared his willingness to post a forfeit of $50,000, provided Kearns would do the same for Dempsey.

Kearns carefully listened to O'Rourke's offer, but refused to make any comment. He stated he would hold another conference with the promoter next Monday, at which the matter would be further discussed.

KEARNS TO MAKE ANOTHER EFFORT

Manager Will Seek Once Once More to Arrange For Dempsey-Wills Go

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Jack Kearns, inclined to be conciliatory where once he was defiant, declared today he would make one final attempt to gently but firmly ease a Dempsey-Wills engagement into the fight records, and failing in this, would withdraw his champion from all fistic enterprises, dealing with the immediate future.

Somewhat depressed by the latest turn of events, whereby the withdrawal of Tex Rickard from all bidding for Dempsey's service followed hard upon the barring of Jess Willard in New Jersey, Kearns intimated that he would in the future pursue a more diplomatic course in dealing with promoters.

No more million dollar mouthings. The promoter who came forward with a written or verbal guarantee from a state commission that the Dempsey-Wills affair would stand without hitching would get the match automatically, he affirmed.

Says Bout Will Draw

"I know the bout will draw without them telling me," quoth the worthy manager. "All I ask of any one is to get a guarantee from any state commission that it is willing to allow the fight to be held. I'll sign up with that man immediately.

"If I can't get it the champion and I will either go to Europe or we will return west and take up a movie contract that was offered us. At any rate, I will not tie myself up with any promoter who cannot supply the guarantee I demand. I'm not going to sign for a fight and then have it stopped. If the New York commission, for instance, barred the Dempsey-Wills fight, the chances are that it would be discountenanced everywhere."

For the time being Kearns is hoping for the best from Tom O'Rourke, who, with Harry Frazee, remains in the field of possible promoters.

Movie Stars Organize To Fight Picture Ring

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—Amalgamation of seven leading motion picture stars and several independent producers, for releasing purposes, but which in reality will be an organization to oppose the so-called "ring" of exhibitors and to preserve what they call "art," will be formed within a few days, it was authoritatively learned today. The combination will be a million dollar organization.

Such stars as Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Norma and Constance Talmadge, Jackie Coogan, Charlie Chaplin, Harold Lloyd and perhaps Charles Ray, who has the matter under consideration, will make up the organized it was learned. Independent producers such as Joseph M. Schenck and D. W. Griffith will also be interested in the combination.

SPORTS CHATTER

By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

A number of third class pugilists are getting a lot of first class publicity of a free and gratis nature as the result of all the palaver that is going on in the matter of matching one or more of them up with Champion Jack Dempsey.

There is one thing this business of trying out the green and raw baseball material by the clubs before going to the training camps will accomplish. That is, a lot of youngsters will not get the free advertising they have been accorded in past years before they slipped back again into oblivion. There'll be a lot of good white print paper saved for something else to record.

A lot of interesting rowing competition has been arranged for between crews of Princeton, Yale, Harvard, Cornell, Navy, Columbia and other eastern institutions, but it still remains to be seen whether any far western crew will make the transcontinental trip to compete at Poughkeepsie. The University of California is making a late start and has not yet been out on the water. This institution has no paid coach, all the instruction it has received in the past being gratuitously given by Ben Wallis, a former Yale oarsman.

The expected move on the part of Stanford university for the revival of rowing never materialized, and there is no hope of a crew from that direction. In a recent address President Wilbur stated that any sport that took more time for the dressing, undressing and the going to and fro than the actual time engaged in the sport was not worth the time. He doubtless had rowing in mind for the Stanford crew has to spend a couple of hours getting to water.

While the Hawaiian team of basketballers has not been as formidable an organization as was expected, they nevertheless have shown themselves a sportsmanlike lot of fellows who have made a fine impression and with whom it has been a pleasure for the mainland teams to meet up with. These visits from Honolulu teams here and mainland teams to the islands are doing much to keep alive friendly rivalry and it is to be hoped that it will be continued.

There are few spots, of a relative size, that produces more versatile athletes in a wider line of sports, than do the Hawaiian islands, and as they continue to excel, it only is natural that they should have to look for more fields to conquer, their territory being limited.

TEXAS MAN BUYS BUSINESS SCHOOL

Expert Commercial Teacher Will Run Institution on South Brand

The Glendale Commercial school at 224 South Brand boulevard is now under the ownership of A. N. Symmes.

Mr. Symmes and his wife, of 512 North Louise street, arrived in Glendale a short time ago from Paris, Texas, where he was principal of the Paris Commercial college. He has had eighteen years' experience in business college work and is reported to have assisted many young men and women to secure lucrative positions. He is a graduate of the normal school at Lebanon, Ohio, and holds a life high school certificate to teach commercial subjects in the state of Ohio.

Miss Neva Veysey of Eagle Rock is retiring from the management of the local school, but Miss Clara L. Sayre of 914 South Central avenue will remain upon its faculty.

Mr. and Mrs. Symmes have become boosters for Glendale already and are inviting their friends in the Lone Star state to come to Southern California.

BOOSTS NEWS AS SELLING MEDIUM

Advertising Costing $7.30 Helped Property Sale Totaling $14,600

That The Glendale Evening News classified advertisements are productive of results is the testimony of R. B. Hammond of 508 North Isabel street, sole agent and part owner of twelve lots just east of the new high school grounds, between Broadway and Harvard streets, which he sold in four days' time for $14,600. Mr and Mrs. W. A. Pryor of Duluth, Minn., now wintering at 515-A North Louise street, brother-in-law and sister of Mr. Hammond, were part owners of the property.

Of course the $14,600 were the important figures concerned, but it is interesting to note that eighteen days of advertising in The Glendale Evening News, costing $7.30, assisted Mr. Hammond in his quick sales. Mr. Hammond states that two of the lots were directly sold through the advertisement, for two of the purchasers brought the clipped advertisement with them. As for the others, he says he is sure they read the announcement in The News before inquiry.

List of Buyers

The purchasers of the lots are E. G. Geldmacher, W. C. and Amy C. Finley, Marlow C. Doss and Lucy C. Doss, C. M. Rupp, E. A. Carr and Pearl Nutter Carr, Ada Lawton, Mr. Eilman, Willard B. Nelson, G. A. Smart, L. V. Gibbs and Mary Effie Gibbs, William A. Clutter and Cora B. Clutter, Willard B. Nelson.

Prices paid for the lots were two lots at $1000, two lots at $1150, four lots at $1200, two lots at $1250, two lots at $1500.

THEATRES

The GLENDALE

In "Do and Dare," the Fox film now playing at the Glendale theater, Tom Mix has three distint roles to play—first, that of the valorous scout of the western plains who rescues the daughter of the post commander from a tribe of hostile Indians; second, that of the guileless youth suddenly fired to the desire for adventure by lurid tales of his famous forebear; and third, that of the brave and resolute participant in a South American revolution, whose daring deeds win for him the woman of his choice and command of a nation's military forces.

Edward Sedgwick directed the picture, from a story by Marion Brooks, and the cast includes, besides Mix, the winsome leading woman, Claire Adams, and a host of good supporting players.

The greatest fishing stream in the world is the Columbia river.

The T. D. & L.

Alice Brady is starred by Paramount in "Anna Ascends," which opens today at the T. D. & L. theater. The supporting cast numbers among its stellar lights Nita Naldi, David Powell and Robert Ellis, an impressive and able trio.

The story, taken from the successful stage play of the same name, in which Miss Brady appeared as the star a few seasons back, deals with the struggles of an immigrant Syrian girl to become an author in America. Starting as a waitress in a New York coffee house, romance comes to her and she goes through a vivid series of adventures with a band of jewel smugglers.

Those who had the pleasure of seeing Miss Brady before the footlights in this vehicle will be eager to witness her in the celluloid version, and those who missed that pleasure can make up for it now.

FIGURES REVEAL GLENDALE'S LEAD

Per Capita Expenditure for January Building Is $29.25, Estimate

Comparison of per capita figures as shown by the building permits issued in Glendale and other adjacent cities in January shows that Glendale leads near-by towns by almost double the figure of the next highest town.

Glendale's building permits totaled $1,024,336 for January, which gives a per capita expenditure for building of $29.25, based on a population of 36,000.

Long Beach comes second on the list, with a per capita expenditure of $15.33, for total permits of $1,383,026, for a population of 90,000. Los Angeles comes third with $14.00 per capita, showing total permits of $11,258,511 for an estimated population of 800,000, while Pasadena, with a population of 60,000 and building permits for $772,483, shows a per capita expenditure of $12.90.

These figures have all been compiled by Lloyd H. Wilson of Glendale from official sources in each of the towns mentioned and they may, therefore, be taken as reliable.

Last year Glendale showed more than double the per capta building expenditure of any other city in the country, and it is predicted that the present year will see this ratio greatly increased.

It is worthy of note, Mr. Wilson declares, that Los Angeles, with twenty-three times the population of Glendale, had only eleven times the amount of building for 1922.

Reports from the large eastern cities, Chicago, Boston and Detroit, show the average of these cities to be around $3 per capita, while New York has $6.50 per capita. Other eastern cities and towns range all the way from those figures down to .35 cents per capita in one case.

This condition produces heartburn, choking sensations in the chest, a feeling of heaviness or drowsiness, irritability, discouragement and despondency. These symptoms call for Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills, which, taken in time, will offset the poison in the system. Read what one former sufferer has to say:

Mrs. Lottie J. Dewitt, No. 167 Front St., Port Jervis, New York, writes:

"I am glad to say your Medicine is wonderful. For over three years I had Kidney and Bladder trouble and a tired worn out feeling and I spent hundreds of dollars for treatments and I failed to get any relief.

"When I saw your address in the paper I sent and got Dr. A. W. Chase's K-L Pills and today I feel like a new person.

"Your medicine is wonderful and the best in the world for Kidney and Bladder trouble."

You can buy Dr. Chase's remedies at all drug stores. To be sure of getting the genuine, see that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on each box—your protection against imitations

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Tax On Automobile Tires Snow—Real and Otherwise Regarding Contributions When It Comes to Votes

By Gil A. Cowan

WHAT one person doesn't think of, another will. This is true in the case of a bill presented the legislature for a tax on automobile tires rather than one on gasoline for highway maintenance.

The proponent of the newest tax says all tires are used on the roads, while a large amount of gasoline is used for purposes other than motor cars. Certainly, there is some logic in the argument.

And as for equitably distributing the burden, the user of more tires would pay the most money, thus getting at the cause of highway deterioration.

What think you of the idea?

Traveling through the California redwoods during a snow storm is said to provide a thrilling sight. No doubt it does, but who wants to be caught in a forest filled with snow unless preparations have been made to stay awhile?

Therefore, we advise no one to make the trip simply to see the sights. You can find all the snow you want along Northern California rail lines.

In the mountains between San Diego and Imperial Valley you will find snow, also in the mountains back of Riverside and sometimes on Mt. Lowe.

And you will find "snow birds" on almost any corner of our cities, for day by day America is getting dopier and dopier. Good to see several arrests have been made in the narcotic crusade.

Just as the Jones committee investigation of campaign expenses by the various interests for and against initiative measures gives promise of fizzling out, according to the Sacramento Union, the assembly takes up a probe of those civil service employes who were requested to contribute to the former administration's election expenses.

Some people are born inquisitive, others develop the trait and still others are forced to be so.

Relative to the subject of contributions, the writer learns that girls are used by unscrupulous magazine solicitors to stand on street corners and approach male passersby with the proposition:

"Won't you vote for me?" They then explain they are working for a scholarship by taking subscriptions to magazines of little value. Fact is, they are professional solicitors who wouldn't know what to do with a scholarship if they had it.

Further, the cash they receive is split with a manager who maintains uptown offices and lives an easy life.

Thinking about the subject of reapportionment, it is interesting to notice a statement by David B. Lyons, registrar of voters for Los Angeles county. He says:

"We register nearly one-third of all the voters in California; more than double San Francisco city and county; we serve forty-one incorporated cities besides Los Angeles; we cover a territory geographically eighty times as large as San Francisco county and city."

That ought to answer the northern city as to the effect an initiative election will have on the matter of giving Southern California the representation to which it is constitutionally entitled.

Interesting to read the York, Neb., doctor's letter stating The Glendale Evening News is inspirational. It is up to you folks who provide the news, however.

See to it that Glendale 132 gets the facts. There is a big staff of news writers, as well as advertising assistants, to see to it that this paper maintains its high position.

Money spent in Glendale helps to make Glendale a bigger and better city.

MAN'S LEADERSHIP STRESSED AT ROTARY CLUB'S LUNCHEON

Harry Rimmer Claims Service Plants for Race's Future and Enriches World

"EACH man is a leader of men," stated Harry Rimmer at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday, in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, "be he a lawyer, a mechanic, a merchant, a banker, or what. For the eyes of scores of boys are on every man who has risen in his profession or trade.

"Those boys are to be the lawyers, mechanics, merchants and bankers of tomorrow, and they are learning the roles they are to play in the drama of life by watching the actors on the stage today. Where you go straight, they will go straight; and where you go crooked, they, too, will take that turning."

Mr. Rimmer, well known and well liked in Glendale, is speaking at various organizations here this week, which is "Young People's Week," under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. He is a very forceful and refreshing talker and his rapid-fire monologue abounds in colortul anecdote.

At one time during his remarks he mystified his intent listeners by suddenly producing a little glass phial stoppered with cotton. "This tube was given me by a curator of the Smithsonian institute," he explained. "It contains something said to be very valuable, perhaps priceless, over 3000 years old, that is but three-sixteenths of an inch long and three sixty-fourths of an inch in diameter.

Grain of Wheat

"Its value lies in its great stretching quality. If the original owner had started stretching it, the article would now cover the earth. But, as it is, the value is only potential, for the original owner never developed this quality. It is, gentlemen, a grain of wheat!

"Had that grain of wheat been planted, and the yield planted again, and again and again, during those long 3000 years, the whole world would today be green with fruitage of that tiny seed. But it was never planted, so it never gave service. It was placed, instead, in the palm of a Pharoah."

Looking to Future

Mr. Rimmer then developed the idea of service along those lines, stating that it means planting for the future, not hoarding for the present. And he gave many examples of unselfish service that have enriched the world. The life of David Lloyd George, as a child, was saved by a worn-out physician who for two nights had had no sleep. David Livingston, the great explorer, was the only convert to Christianity, in three weeks, of a certain evangelist.

"Though recognizing that adequate boy life leadership is needed in every community of the nation," continued Mr. Rimmer. "Many men feel, when they make their contribution, that they are doing boys' work. But they are not—they are doing men's work. And the obligation doesn't close with the donation. It lasts twenty-four hours a day, three hundred and sixty-five days a year, not omitting leap-year."

Lauds Rotarians

Mr. Rimmer expressed confidence that the Glendale Rotary club would "hit the ball hard" in the oncoming Boy Scouts' drive. This confidence, he said, was backed up by a wide experience with Rotarians and the fine way they always come to the front in worthy campaigns.

"One thing is certain," said Mr. Rimmer, "and that is, the millions of boys of America will either build up our country or tear it down, according as whether or not we inculcate in them the ideals of Jesus Christ. And we cannot make Christians of this vast host of boys without adequate, unselfish leadership."

Table Civic Center

Numerous other matters were taken up at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday. J. I. Wernette, as a member of the civics committee, brought up the matter of the Glendale sanitarium civic center site, which is being held at $175,000, his desire being to convey to the committee the Rotary club's attitude on the subject. After some discussion, the proposition was tabled, it being the consensus of opinion that no action should be taken until after the school bond election, schools being deemed of more immediate and vital importance than parks.

George Bentley, John Huntley and Francis J. W. Henry were appointed by President Roy L. Kent leaders of the three Rotary "scout patrols." While on the subject of Boy Scouts, it was announced that today's auto trip to Tujunga, for the purpose of looking over the proposed scout camp, will leave the city hall at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The caravan will proceed to Tujunga, and then follow the signs.

Shrine Club Show

Edward Jones was appointed to hold up Rotary's end of the Shrine club performance at the T. D. & L. theater the afternoon and night of February 8. The proceeds of this benefit are to go toward erection of a clubhouse for the Glendale Shriners.

The five new members of the Rotary club, John Huntley, Ruie Downing, Ed Nisle, J. A. Newton and Fay Stone, were each presented with a framed copy of the Rotarian "Code of Ethics," which contains the basic principles of the organization.

Charles Cooper announced that members of the Glendale Rotary club will convene at 7 o'clock the night of February 6, in the Sunset Country club, at a dinner with prospective members of the Burbank chapter, now forming. Twenty-two members signified their intention of being present.

Guests Present

A number of guests were at yesterday's Rotary club luncheon among them Harry Rimmer, the guest of honor; Secretary Rex C. Kelley of the Glendale Y. M. C. A.; David Black, business manager of the Glendale schools; H. A. Harden of Los Angeles; M. Hoffman, a retired official of the International Harvester company, now here on a visit; and the following Burbank contingent: Mayor J. C. Crawford, D. B. Cummings, W. S. Sanderson and Dr. P. E. Zeiss.

The following visiting Rotarians were present: J. Will Johnson, Pueblo, Colo.; Benjamin E. Barnard, Mitchell, S. Dak., and H. B. Potter and Arthur M. Loomis of Los Angeles.

North Dakotans Will Hold Picnic Tomorrow

All former residents of North Dakota are notified that the last call for the big winter picnic reunion to be held in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles, all day Saturday, February 3, has been sent out.

Picnickers are requested to come early, bringing basket dinners. Plenty of hot coffee will be available.

County registers will be in place and a great time is sure. The thousands of tourists here are urged to come and meet their old friends.

PROTECTION TO TREES

It is unlawful to cut or injure trees or shrubs within the limits of public highways in Michigan, without a permit from the authorities having jurisdiction over such roads. If any person violates this law by not obtaining the consent of the abutting property owner, in addition to a permit from the highway authorities, he is liable to the abutting property owner for damages.

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN MID-YEAR CLASS

Reynold E. Blight Makes Talk at Exercises Held At High School

it show itself through your life in honesty, virtue, uprightness. He whose life is a channel for truth conquers the world.

Force of Love

"Supposing you were asked what is the greatest force, you might more easily find the answer. It is love. Passion, hatred, revenge, ambition, avarice, greed, mania for place and power; all these are mighty but they are weak in comparison with love. All the wise men the race has known have all agreed that the mightiest force is love. Love makes the world go 'round. Pitiful, indeed, is the man who, though he have wealth and social position, yet doesn't have love. Fortunate, indeed, is that man who has love even though riches and fame are denied him. With love in your heart you are the master of men.

Mirror of Soul

"And what is the most beautiful thing the world knows? Not sunsets, and roses, and sublime poetry, and glorious buildings, but a beautiful human face. The face is the mirror of the soul, the revelation of the personality. Health, a cheerful disposition, an optimistic spirit, high ideals and an unselfish life always make the face radiant with joy and beauty. Such a person doesn't need cosmetics to make the face attractive.

"Surely when the question is put: 'What is the most enduring thing?' we shall all agree that it is character. True, noble character withstands the buffeting of all life's experiences, and, no matter what the vicissitudes of life may be, character remains. Money may be lost, the breath of slander dissipates a reputation. All that one has in a material sense may be taken away; but character endures. Therefore, with all your getting, get character."

CIVIC CENTER NOW UNDER DISCUSSION

Glendale Realty Board Is Interested in Project To Secure Site

Chamber of Commerce from a man who was seeking a small ranch on which to raise chickens was read to the board, and it was decided that all similar inquiries from the Chamber of Commerce should be published in the official bulletin of the Glendale Realty Board and that the attention of the members of the multiple listing system be called to them. It was also decided to send a committee, consisting of Mayor Spencer Robinson and G. H. Wende, to meet with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and to discuss with them some plan for handling all of the real estate inquiries that come to the Chamber of Commerce.

The secretary distributed membership application blanks in the California Real Estate association and urged the members to fill them in, either as active or as associate members. H. M. Miller also submitted samples of blanks to be used in making exclusive listings, and these forms are to be considered by a committee and their adoption, in the form that is finally approved by the committee, is to be recommended to the members.

Next Week's Speakers

The Tujunga Valley Realty Board, in a letter addressed to the secretary, asked that a date be set on which the Tujunga board could meet with the Glendale board at luncheon, in order to permit the members to become better acquainted and also to discuss a wider co-operation for the development of this section of the state.

The speakers for next Thursday, as announced by President Thom, are to be Thomas Ingersoll, secrtary of the Los Angeles Realty Board and formerly secretary of the National Real Estate Association, and O. S. Vickery, chairman of the valuation committee of the Los Angeles Realty Board.

BUYERS LURED BY BAKERY PRODUCTS

Perfect System Bread Wins Instant Approval From Local Housewives

The Perfect System bakery at 128 North Brand boulevard yesterday was besieged by housewives anxious to try its newest products, "Oliver Twist" bread and "overstuffed" cream puffs.

This bakery is now owned by E. O. Howle and Charles G. Perry of Hollywood, who have two branches in the movie city already and are establishing three more. Miss Georgia T. Green, who is moving to Glendale from San Diego, will have charge of the local branch.

Most Healthful

"Oliver Twist" bread, according to Mr. Howle, is the most healthful possible to procure, because it is made with pure olive oil. He called attention to the fact that the cream puffs turned out at this bakery are filled with real whipped cream and are of such size that it is difficult to keep one's ears from getting mussed. These cream puffs sold so rapidly yesterday afternoon that a customer, who came in for a "second helping," was told that they were all gone. She inquired where the cream had been purchased and returned later with a quantity of it with which the shells were loaded.

Speaking about "Oliver Twist" bread, Mr. Howle remarked that another customer had become greatly interested in it after she had heard a person attempting to inform a deaf friend of its merits.

Seek Romanoff Jewels In Coffin of Sailor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Clifford announced today that he had issued an order authorizing customs officials at New York to exhume the body of Sailor Jones, whose coffin, buried in the national cemetery at Brooklyn, is said to hold the crown jewels of the Russian family.

The Romanoff jewels are said to have been smuggled into the United States by a band of European smugglers who were frustrated in attempts to recover the jewels from the coffin before it was interred by the military authorities. The coffin will be dug up in the next few days under supervision of the treasury intelligence service, co-operating with military officials.

A PERFECT HOME
—O—
Extra large living room and dining room across the front of the house, with immense plate-glass windows disclosing a wonderful view of the mountains and a stained glass window above the buffet and china closet. There is a fireplace and nice mantel in the living room. There is a breakfast room and the nice chairs and table are included with the house; a cute little built-in china closet is also included in this room. With each bedroom there is a dressing room in which are built-in wardrobes; an extra lavatory in one of the dressing rooms The kitchen is a dream realized—tile sink, all the built-ins and an extra writing desk for the housekeeper; large enough not to be big. And you must see the bathroom to really appreciate it; like the balance of the house it is in perfect harmony and keeping. The screen porch is large and contains the wash trays and an automatic heater. The house is heated with wall furnaces that insure comfort. The front porch is very pleasing—massive without cumbersomeness. Three coats of paint were used on the outside and four inside. The garage is 16x34, divided into living rooms and has gas, water and lights. The lot is 50x170 in a very choice residential section. $8400, $3500 cash, or submit offer. Might consider a good lot.

Clearance Sale Draws Shoppers of Glendale

R. M. McGee, of McGee's Dry Goods & Furnishings Store of 614 East Broadway, Glendale, reports that the clearance sale which started Thursday of this week is one of the most successful in the history of the store. A great many of the items featured at cut prices were purchased a year ago, before the recent advance in wool and cotton goods and mean a real saving to shrewd shoppers.

The McGee store is one of the oldest established business concerns in Glendale, and the semi-annual clearance sales are always looked forward to by a large number of Glendale people.

The easiest way to be reconciled to age is to observe a few young simpletons trying to act smart.

GLENDALE TOTAL AIDED BY BERAN

Contractor Claims Credit Pushing Permit Figure Over Million Mark

When Glendale's building total for January went over the million dollar mark, it was Contractor S. S. Beran of 305 South Brand boulevard who gave the last push, submitting the application for the permit that turned the trick.

Mr. Beran was accompanied to the building office by F. C. Butterfield of 431 Arden avenue, who owns the property upon which the building specified in the permit, a duplex, is to be erected.

Modern Features

Attention is called by Mr. Beran to the special price of $4486 he has set on a newly finished six-room stucco residence, including a 12x16 garage. This house is said to be right up to the minute, all cement work, with oak floors throughout, inlaid linoleum on bath and kitchen floors, tile sink, composition closed-in bath tub, pony tray, pedestal lavatory, tile trimmings on the outside of the house, cove ceiling in living and dining room, Superba or Ruud water heater and many other most modern features.

Judging by the way S. S. Beran company construction is booming, states Mr. Beran, he expects to continue "doing his bit" to swell Glendale's monthly building totals.

NEW DRUG STORE OPEN TO PUBLIC

First Unit of Palace Grand Shops Is Thronged by Glendale Visitors

Jensen's Palace Grand Shops became a realization in the business life of Glendale yesterday when the doors of the new drug store were opened to the public. The new store, which is a wonderful piece of workmanship as to planning, construction, equipment and decoration, presented a happy scene all day yesterday and last night, as old and new friends were received and partook of the hospitable service of the store employes.

It was not only a social visiting day, for the majority of the guests featured their visit with one or more purchases, adding an air of business activity to the happiness of the reception.

During the opening 288 persons were served at the fine fountain, which is indeed a masterpiece in its line.

Flowers Are Sent

Countless congratulatory messages were received throughout the day from far and near, and floral gifts on display in the new store bespoke the good wishes of friends for prosperity and success.

The largest floral piece showed a card bearing these words, "The Boys," who are the builders and employes of the building. Other pieces were from Sharp & Dohne, manufacturing chemists in Baltimore, Maryland; Miss Saylors, Inc., candies; Glendale Ice Cream company; Coker & Taylor, plumbers, and the Park Avenue Pharmacy, E. E. Brown, proprietor.
